

AI How To: Creating a Word Bank

AI How To: Creating a Word Bank from an Article (video)

Word Bank	Word Bank w/Wida Prompt
create a word bank of critical vocabulary for the following article: [paste article]	create a word bank of critical vocabulary accessible for a wide level 3 student with a Lexile range of 1050-1150: [paste article]
Key Terms and Concepts <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Violent crime: Refers to criminal activities that involve force or threat of force, including murder, assault, robbery, and rape.</li><li>Perception vs. reality: The difference between how crime is perceived by the public and the actual crime statistics.</li><li>Crime analyst: A professional who studies crime data to identify patterns and trends.</li><li>Tipping point: A critical point in a situation that leads to a significant and often unstoppable effect or change.</li><li>Decline in crime: A decrease in the number of reported criminal activities over a certain period.</li><li>Public data: Information that is available to the general public, often used for research and analysis.</li><li>Gallup poll: A survey conducted to gather opinions on various topics from a sample of the population.</li><li>Nontraditional policing: Innovative approaches to law enforcement that may not solely rely on traditional methods such as patrolling and arrests.</li><li>Public health lens: Viewing issues like violence from a perspective that considers the overall well-being of the community.</li><li>Narrative: A story or account of events that may influence people's perceptions.</li></ul> Names and Places <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Jeff Asher: A crime analyst and co-founder of AH Datalytics, cited in the article for his analysis on the decline of</li></ul>	Key Terms and Concepts <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>Violent Crime: Acts that involve force or threat of force, such as murder, assault, robbery, and rape.</li><li>Surged: Increased quickly and suddenly.</li><li>FBI: Federal Bureau of Investigation; a government agency that handles certain types of crime in the U.S.</li><li>Tipping Point: A critical point at which a significant change occurs.</li><li>Decline: Decrease or reduction.</li><li>Perception: The way something is understood or interpreted.</li><li>Gallup Poll: A type of survey or opinion poll that measures public opinion.</li><li>Outliers: Exceptions; instances that do not follow the general pattern.</li><li>Criminologists: Experts who study crime, criminal behavior, and the criminal justice system.</li><li>Recruitment: The process of finding new people to join an organization or support a cause.</li><li>Exodus: A mass departure of people.</li><li>Public Health Lens: Viewing a situation or problem as a matter related to the health and well-being of the public.</li><li>Nontraditional Policing Initiatives: New or unconventional methods used to address crime and policing, often focusing on community and social issues.</li><li>Hotspots: Areas where crime is particularly concentrated.</li><li>Macro Scale: A large or overall view of a situation.</li></ol>

AI How To: Creating a Word Bank

violent crime. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• AH Datalytics: A data analytics firm co-founded by Jeff Asher, focusing on crime data.</li><li>• Minneapolis: One of the cities mentioned in the article experiencing a decline in crime and changes in policing strategies.</li><li>• San Francisco: City discussed in the article facing visible crises but also showing a decrease in violent crimes.</li><li>• Baltimore: City highlighted in the article for battling perceptions of danger and implementing strategies to reduce crime.</li><li>• George Floyd: Mentioned in the context of his police killing leading to an exodus from the Minneapolis police department.</li></ul> Strategies and Initiatives <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Nontraditional policing initiatives: Efforts that go beyond conventional policing methods, such as community engagement or mental health support.</li><li>• Department of Neighborhood Safety: An example of an initiative that addresses violence with a public health approach.</li><li>• Violent hotspots: Areas identified as having a high incidence of violent crimes.</li><li>• Housing assistance and employment: Social support strategies mentioned as part of efforts to reduce crime.</li></ul>
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--